

TRACE

Generocity.org Reporting on a More Just Recovery

Notes from a Generocity.org Reporting Project
Generocity.org Publisher Christopher Wink
(Project by Sabrina Vourvoulias and Lynette Hazleton)

Energy burden is housing and food insecurities' hidden cousin, but the pandemic is putting it in the spotlight

COVID is ravaging the incarcerated. Where are the solutions?

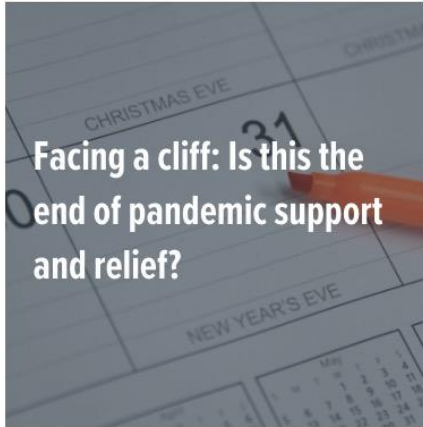

The Reading Terminal Market story: Will beloved public spaces return?

In crisis, public health comes undone

Where has the coronavirus relief money gone?

Facing a cliff: Is this the end of pandemic support and relief?

Thank you:

- Independence Public Media Foundation
- The Lenfest Institute for Journalism
- Scattergood Foundation,
- Samuel S. Fels Fund
- HealthSpark Foundation
- The Barra Foundation,
- The Foundation for Delaware County
- the Wells Fargo Regional Foundation
- Philanthropy Network

Weekly reporting: Visit generocity.org/project/trace

Quarterly Self-Assessment

In addition to weekly reporting, we are running a quarterly self-assessment. We ask 100 regional nonprofit leaders (Community groups; econ dev; philanthropy; social services orgs)

Project
Kickoff

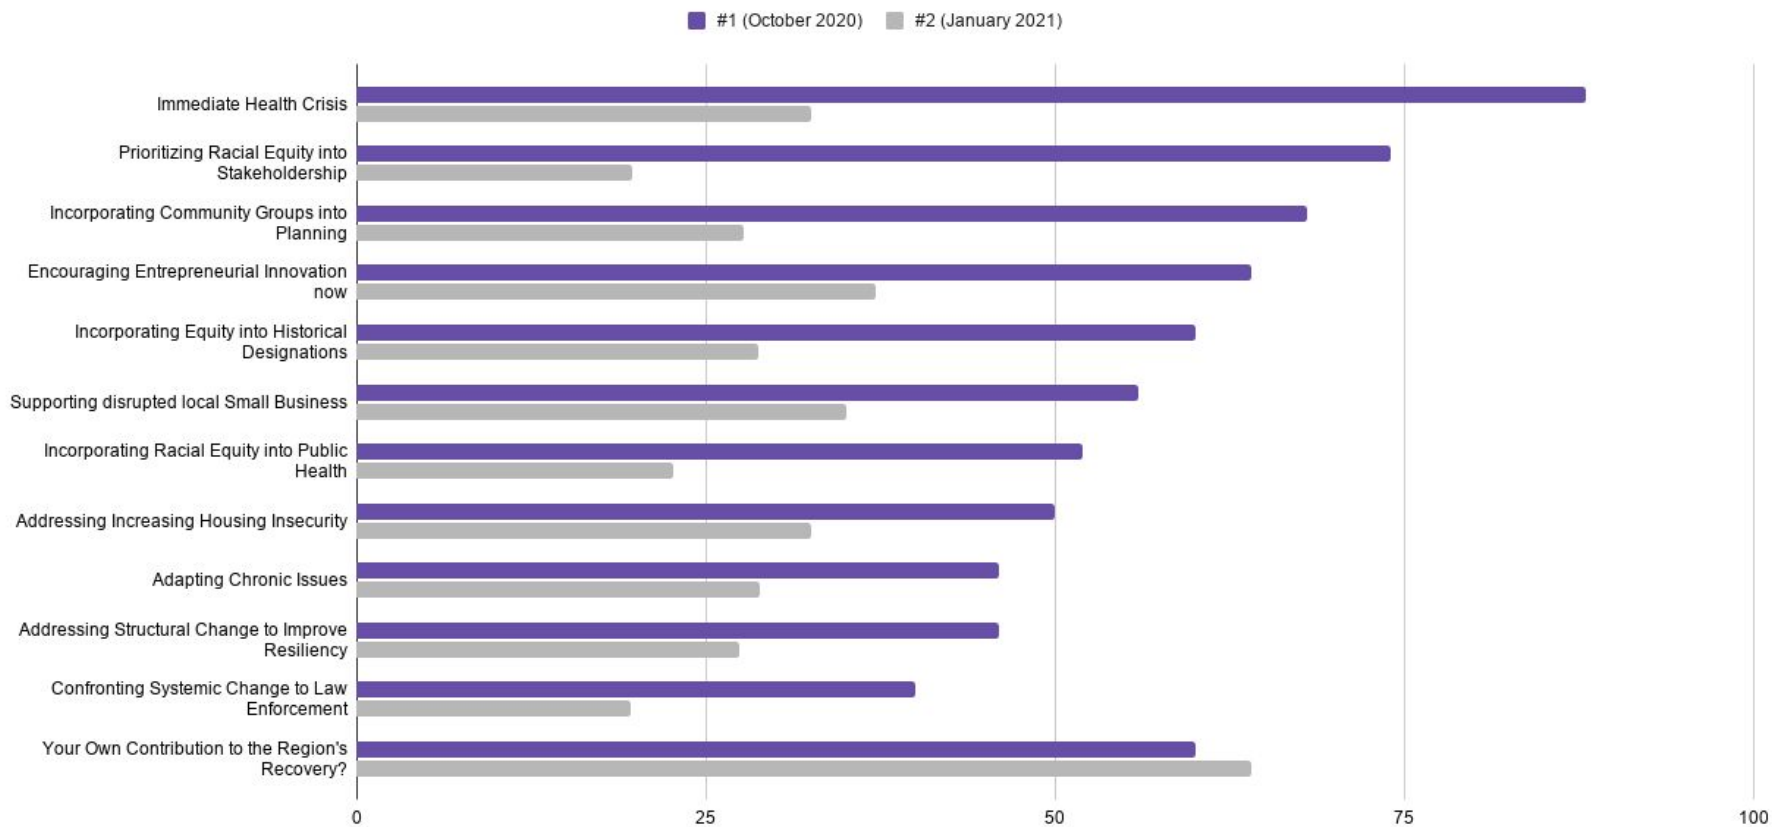

Jan. 2021
Self-
Assessment

July 2021
Self-
Assessment

Oct. 2020
Self-
Assessment

April. 2021
Self-
Assessment

Generocity TRACE 'Just Recovery' Self-Assessment

Highs/Lows

	October 2020 Score	January 2021 Score
Response to the health crisis of covid-19	88%	33%
Confronting Systemic Change to Law Enforcement	40%	20%

Top in Jan 2021: "Encouraging Entrepreneurial Innovation now" 37%

"Times of crisis are opportunities for transformation. This country, this region, our leaders do not have the moral compass or courage to make transformative change."

-One Leader Response.

Focus on that which you can control. Make great change.

Be in touch

- Generocity.org/subscribe
- What stories of this recovery aren't being covered? (I'm chris@technicallymedia.com)

